

FINALLY! An accessible version of “Don Quixote”

Selected Readings Editions is proud to announce the release of “Don Quixote: Selected Readings The Sancho Chronicles” by Miguel de Cervantes, translated from the Spanish by John Ormsby. At 187 pages, this version contains the beginning, the ending, and twenty-two of the novel’s most iconic episodes, almost all of which feature Don Quixote’s comically devoted squire Sancho Panza.

Selected Readings Editions

“We make reading the classics a pleasure.”

The goal of Selected Readings Editions is to give as many people as possible the opportunity to experience some of the greatest works of literature ever written. Toward that end, we have created editions that consist of a selection of representative readings that will give readers a rewarding literary experience without having to go through the entire text. We also offer editions for young adults.

Here are some of the highlights of our catalogue:

For the general public:

- “Don Quixote: Selected Readings The Sancho Chronicles” by Miguel de Cervantes, translated from the Spanish by John Ormsby. 187 pages.
This version contains the beginning, the ending, and twenty-two of the novel’s most iconic episodes, almost all of which feature Don Quixote’s comically devoted squire Sancho Panza.
- “The Odyssey: Selected Readings” by Homer, translated from the Greek by William Cowper. 183 pages.
In this version occasional passages have been skipped over to tighten the narrative and bring the role of the villain Antinous into a sharper focus.
- “The Scarlet Letter: Selected Readings” by Nathaniel Hawthorne. 130 pages.
In this version the long introduction has been skipped over along with a few other passages to reduce the wordiness.
- “A Short Anthology of Short Poems” 104 pages.
A collection of short poems that range from Sappho to Langston Hughes.

For young adults:

- “Huckleberry Finn: Selected Readings” by Mark Twain. 151 pages.

In this version the three extended digressions that don't involve the character of Jim have been skipped over.

- "Ulysses' Voyage Home" by Homer. 65 pages.
This edition consists of just the episodes of Ulysses' adventures during his journey from Troy after the Trojan War to his home on the island of Ithaca.
- "Don Quixote and My Uncle Sal" by E. C. Streeter. 122 pages.
This novella intertwines the amorous ups and downs of a United Nations peacekeeper named Carl Spagnoli with the story of "Don Quixote" as told by his squire Sancho Panza in a series of fictional letters to his wife written by Carl's late uncle Salvatore Longo and left to him in his will. There is no inappropriate language.

From our Dimension Engineering Press popular science imprint:

- "Solving the Solar Enigma: The Story of the Scientists Behind the Discovery of the Sun's Energy Source" by E. C. Streeter. 122 pages.
This a "chain of discoveries" story that begins with the investigations of Galileo and Isaac Newton and ends with Hans Bethe's Nobel Prize winning work in 1938 that finally explained the nuclear process of stellar energy generation.
- "The Search for the Seeds of the Universe: The Story Behind the Discovery of the Absolute Beginning of Absolutely Everything" by E. C. Streeter. 170 pages.
This book answers the question of what was produced by the Big Bang when the universe began, namely electrons, quarks, anti-particles, and X-bosons, and it also tells the stories of how they were discovered.

You can find us at Booth #2155

And don't forget to check out our website:
selectedreadingseditions.com

info@selectedreadingseditions.com